Secretary of State
Department of Business, Innovation, Science and Trade

Dear Jonathan,

Subject: Fujitsu's inclusion on Government procurement frameworks

I write to you as Secretary of State regarding Fujitsu's inclusion on recent Government procurement frameworks, and request a response from the relevant Minister.

The Committee has noted that Fujitsu has recently secured places on several Government procurement frameworks, including Digital Outcomes and Specialists 7. In our March 2026 report Post Office Horizon scandal: Justice for sub-postmasters, the Committee recommended that Fujitsu should extend the scope of its self-imposed moratorium and refrain from bidding for any new Government contracts other than where essential service continuity requires it.

We recognise that appointment to a framework does not itself constitute the award of a contract. However, these frameworks enable suppliers to compete for opportunities across government and the wider public sector. Given Fujitsu's stated moratorium on bidding for work with new Government customers, please could you clarify:

- Whether Fujitsu's appointment to these frameworks enables it to bid for work from public sector bodies that are not existing Fujitsu customers?
- The Government's understanding of how Fujitsu's participation in these frameworks accords with its stated moratorium?
- What discussions, if any, the Government has had with Fujitsu regarding its participation in these frameworks and compliance with its moratorium?
- Whether Fujitsu has provided the Government with any assurance that it will not use these frameworks to obtain work from new public sector customers while its moratorium remains in effect?

I would be grateful for a response by Wednesday 12 August.
