Hi [REDACTED]

This is the message from Lex I forwarded last night to [REDACTED]. Please can you arrange this today or tomorrow .

[REDACTED] tells me that the Reuter's story re Lord Myners has been run by the New York Times,I think we need to be able to respond to clients. Perhaps the only thing we can do right now is have Lord M meet me ASAP - like today or Monday. Can this be arranged?

Dear [REDACTED],

It's [REDACTED] here, Lord Myners' PA, I have just returned from holiday and picked up this email chain.

I am aware Paul has offered dates which do not work for Mr Greensill. To help move this forward I want to give you the bigger picture, Paul will be away from London from 13th July as he is presiding over graduation ceremonies at the University of Exeter w/c 15th and 22nd July. From Exeter, Paul will move onto his home in Cornwall where he will spend the rest of the summer. He does, however, have some free space next week for a meeting:

Lord Myners & Greensill Emails

Wednesday 10th July at 14.30hrs
Thursday 11th July at 14.30hrs
Friday 12th July between 12noon and 14.00hrs

How do these slots look in Mr Greensill's diary? If we cannot make a physical meeting work we can always try for a telephone or skype call. Please feel free to call me on [REDACTED] if it is easier.

With thanks

CORRESPONDENCE 3: Lord Myners feedback on Greensill meeting and draft statement

Sent: Friday, July 12, 2019 7:48 PM
To: [REDACTED]@greensill.com>
Cc: [REDACTED]@edelman.com>
Subject: Myners feedback and draft statement

Feedback from Myners meeting:

Given Myners starting position, slightly awkward start to the meeting but swiftly changed in tone when Myners pointed Lex to the number of PMQ's asked about open ended funds and illiquid investments.

Reassured Lex and came to conclusion his comment/position was nothing specific to Greensill, so again the tone warmed a lot.

Spent c.30 mins discussing Greensill business plan.

Talked about new launch idea of how people could factor their monthly wage check and get paid in advance – Myners thought interesting concept, but recommended that to be successful Greensill needs to resolve reputational issues first.

Lex asked if Myners wanted to join the board. Myners agreed to have lunch with Lex and Greensill Chairman in sept. Potential for Myners to also introduce Lex to other potential Board members.

Myners reiterated that he continues to have doubts regarding Gupta's. Lex stated that he did not.

Myners has requested Lex/Greensill shares articles that implies fraud. Myners was not aware of it. Myners will engage with publication if it still exists.

Lord Myners & Greensill Emails
Submitted by Greensill to the Treasury Select Committee
14 May 2021

Lex requested comment/statement from Myners to use with media and investors on a case-by-case basis. Myners shared his caution about proactively issuing it, so not to stir the fire.

Myners has shared a draft statement below to use in response to those who have written/expressed interest. This would obviously need to be tweaked if the article suggesting fraudulent activity is no longer available. Myners exact words re the current draft "This statement is predicated on lex proving to me that an article has been published saying my question implied fraud. An absolute must."

Lord Myners; "My question in Parliament was linked to open ended funds and illiquidity. I have asked many other questions of the same issue in my time in Parliament. In the light of press commentary I took it on myself to meet with Lex Greensill to discuss his business. I found him very open and following the meeting I am comfortable with business and its operations. I heard and saw nothing that would warrant the use of the word fraudulent or anything similar."

CORRESPONDENCE 4: Clarifications surrounding Lord Myners' statement

FYI - apparently not happy with idea any statement can be used with media (as mentioned earlier, his point around the fraudulent criteria), or the proposed edits.

I have asked if there is any scenario where he would have a statement for media and it currently sounds unlikely.

To be clear [REDACTED], I volunteered to Lex a statement to the effect that I had been made aware that media reports in Europe had said that I had used the word fraud or implied it. I would then go on to say that was not the case and, on my own initiative, I had arranged a meeting with Lex who had been kind enough to take me through his business in some detail and that I had not heard or seen anything that I found inappropriate and that, indeed, I had been very impressed by the company

BUT:

1. This was predicated on a repeated assertion that media had said I had spoken of or clearly implied fraud
2. Such a document could be shared with investors on a case-by-case basis with investors if Lex regarded that as necessary but only with my approval on each occasion

Lord Myners & Greensill Emails

This conversation was detailed. It is inconceivable that Lex could have interpreted this as meaning a press release, let alone with the “edits” you have said Lex’s colleagues are either suggesting were agreed or are now requested.

I also couldn’t have been clearer in my communication with you and colleague this afternoon

Please forward this to Lex and [REDACTED]

Dear Paul,

Thank you for your time this afternoon. I welcomed the opportunity to introduce you to our business and appreciated your feedback on our plans for the future.

I am grateful for your help to set the record straight – given the press have somewhat run ahead of themselves based on their interpretation of the question you tabled in the House of Lords.

As discussed, it would be great to get together – perhaps after the summer break – to introduce you to Maurice Thompson, our Chairman, and discuss ways in which we may be able to work together moving forwards. To that end, I have copied my assistant [REDACTED] and Maurice's assistant [REDACTED].

I look forward to seeing you again soon.

Dear Paul,

Thank you for your note.

We are very sorry to hear your news, but completely understand your decision.

We wish you well and you are always welcome to pop in for a coffee.

Should any “noise” concerning previous press does arise with an important investor again, perhaps we can indicate that you would be prepared to take a call from them?

Thank you again – I have enjoyed our discussions.

Warmest regards,

Lex

Subject: Update

Dear Lex and Maurice,

Congratulations on securing further backing from SoftBank. A powerful endorsement from a global investor of standing.

Last week I had a coronary angiogram at Hammersmith Hospital. The Consultant surgeon has advised me to reduce my work load. In the circumstances I think I must decline your interesting idea and not waste your time by commencing any detailed diligence.

I wish you well.

Regards

Paul

Dear Lex,
I attended a GLG (intelligent networks) breakfast this morning for Dave. The latter took me to one side and said that he was delighted to hear that I was talking with his friend Lex and very much hoped that we could do something together.
Let me ponder on this.
Best wishes
Paul
