

Written evidence from Rt Hon David Lidington MP, Leader of the House of Commons (SCC0011)

It is ultimately a matter for the House to decide how it wishes to deal with contemnors.

If it were decided that primary legislation is desired, a request would need to be made to the Parliamentary Business and Legislation Committee which would be considered in the context of the constraints of priorities and capacity within the legislative programme at that time.

April 2017