

Written evidence submitted by Dimensions (ONL0017)

[in response to Written evidence submitted by Katie O'Donovan (Google UK) (ONL0010)]

Many people with learning disabilities will find the community guidelines, which do not conform to established good practice in easyread, difficult to understand. For example, there is too much complicated information about each section. Some of the words are hard to understand. And the current use of imagery does not help an easyread user to contextualise each individual point.

December 2018